

Proteins:

Albumin and Globulin measure the amount and type of protein in your blood, which is a general index of overall health and nutrition. Globulin is the "antibody" protein important for fighting disease. A/G Ratio is the mathematical relationship between these two proteins.